Modern Facts and Ancient Fancies The suggestions offered in the following Manual have been prompted by experience in the school-room, as well as by that of exploration and travel. They are intended as a supplement, and not as a substitute, for the ordinary work of the teacher. They will be of no avail whatever where the only aim in the study of geography is the preparation for examination. I have thought it unnecessary to present any graded course of study. The admirable work of Professor Frye, Child and Nature, leaves in that direction nothing to be desired. Mr. Nicholl s Topics in Geography will also be found a most useful companion. In the second part of the Manual I have considered some of the traditions of geography, in the light of modern science. Some of the discussions have not previously been published; and much of the material has been drawn from sources that to most educators are not readily available. I am not of...
